SOLONS OPPOSE STATE LOTTERY BEFORE VOTERS

COLUMBUS, May 24.—(UP)—The house taxation committee today refused to recommend for passage a resolution proposing to submit to voters in November a constitutional amendment to permit operation of lotteries in Ohio to raise money for future relief needs.

The resolution was sponsored by Rep. Patrick F. Monahan, D., Cuyahoga. The motion to recommend the resolution for passage was defeated by an 11 to 5 vote.

Motion to recommend the bill for passage was made by Rep. Sidney Hesse, D., Cuyahoga. "The trend more and more is to legalize these things and let the state get the benefit of the money," Hesse said. "All we would do is to let the people say whether they do or do not want lotteries to raise money for relief."

His recommendation was opposed by Rep. Thomas Christy, D., Monroe, who admitted that gambling was prevalent but held that it was the duty of local officials to "stamp it out."

Money Needed To Assure Year's Activity

Thirty Circleville men, interested in the welfare of Boy Scout work in Pickaway county, initiated the 1938 sustaining membership appeal at a breakfast Tuesday in the American Hotel coffee shop. Civic leaders who participated in the "early bird" breakfast showed unusual enthusiasm and a determination to complete the job successfully.

In the absence of Byron P. Redman, president of the Central Ohio Area council, Paul Selby, prominent Columbus attorney, addressed the volunteer workers who hope to raise $600 in the Pickaway district to assure the maintenance of scouting for the coming year. Other speakers at the morning meeting were William D. Radcliff, campaign chairman; James I. Smith, Jr., district chairman, and Robert Heistand, scout executive.

CANNERY HALTS CONTRACTS WITH TOMATO RAISERS

CURTICE, O., May 24.—(UP)—Inability of wholesale grocers to order canned tomatoes and tomato products for Fall delivery has compelled the cannery at Curtice, O., to cancel contracts with farmers, L. E. White, vice president of Kirgan's Arcadia Farms, Inc., operators of the cannery, said today.

"Our customers, whom we canvassed late in February, told us they could not make any commitments for the future," White said. "Now they tell us they're not sure they will be in business three months from now. They assure us they will buy the usual amount of our products if they're still running next Fall."

"The wholesalers don't know whether they will be running and therefore we don't know whether we will be running. So the only fair thing to do to the farmer is to tell him we are not sure we can use his tomatoes. That will give him a chance to plant corn or something else."

CITY OFFICIALS MEET TO STUDY MONEY PROBLEM

The council finance committee and Mayor W. B. Cady and Auditor Lillian Young will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday for a general discussion of the city's financial status. Members of the committee are Ben Gordon, chairman, Frank Lynch and Clarence Helvering.

From present indications the city faces a shortage of about $5,000 in its general fund for the next five months. At the present time the general fund contains $5,863.70. Miss Young estimates the receipts from classified tax, fines and costs, sales tax, liquor tax, sewer permits and other sources for the five months will amount to about $7,700. She believes expenditures for the period will be about $18,960, including salaries, light and water bills and other expenses. Current light and water bills have been paid to date. The city still owes the light company about $3,500 for a bill of several years ago.

How the city will work out a solution to the financial problem has not been determined.

CZECH'S SUPPLY OF MASKS GONE IN BRIEF TIME

By Eleanor Packard

PRAGUE, May 24.—(UP)—Czechoslovakia's supply of gas masks for babies and pets has been almost exhausted as the result of the crisis over the German minority.

The 20 gas mask stores here are jammed by thousands of people every day. Every few minutes groups of 30 customers are admitted into the demonstration room where an attractive blonde shows them how to don the masks as quickly as possible.

I noticed that only a few people insisted that their masks be tested in the testing chamber.

I inoculated myself against the war scare by buying a mask. All Czechs are required by law to buy them, but many have not done so. Wearing a head piece that seemed like a set of rubber false teeth, with goggles eyes and a dog like nose, I stood in the testing chamber, filled with fumes. There was a mirror there so that people could see how they would look during a gas attack.

I bought a de luxe model for $6.68. It had a snubnose nose and bigger eye pieces than the standard model at $3.

The testing chamber was one of the 20, one for each store, inaugurated this week. It was set in the middle of a storage room and looked like a big furnace with a wrought iron door. Inside, the salesman flooded the concrete cell with enough gas to knock out anyone who had no mask on. Two minutes later I stepped out, convinced that my mask was efficient.

Salt Creek Leaves Banks In Laurelville Area, Detouring Traffic

SCIOTO RESUMES RISE

Fire Alarm System Put Out Of Commission

Routes 56 and 180, near Laurelville, were closed to traffic Monday evening by flood waters of Salt creek.

The state highway department reported the roads were closed about 5 o'clock and reopened Tuesday at 2:30 a. m. Route 180 extends from Route 56 to Adelphi. Traffic was detoured over the Moccasin road.

State highway employees said these two highways were the only ones covered by flood waters. Streams of the county were swollen after the deluge of an inch and a half of rainfall in the 24 hours preceding 7:30 a. m. Tuesday. The exact measurement in Circleville was 1.54 inches. Rainfall so far this month totals 6.32 inches as compared with a normal of three inches.

Scioto Climbing

Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather recorder, reported the Scioto river at 7:30 a. m. Tuesday was 3.64 feet above normal at the W. Main street bridge and going higher. He could not predict to what extent the stream would climb as a result of Monday's deluge. "Rainfall north of Circleville will determine that," he said.

The weatherman said Monday's rainfall was the heaviest recorded locally in several years. Streets in the city were flooded when storm sewers were unable to take care of the downpour. High winds put the fire alarm circuit out of commission for a short time Monday afternoon.

Tree Breaks Wire

A tree in front of the home of George McDowell, S. Court street, was broken by the wind and in falling snapped the alarm system wire.

Fair and cooler weather was predicted for late Tuesday. Wednesday will be warmer, the state weather bureau predicted.

Ohio Rivers Begin Return to Banks

COLUMBUS, May 24.—(UP)—Central Ohio rivers fell gradually today after several had risen to new 1938 crests.

Sunshine replaced yesterday's rainstorm, one of several that pushed streams out of their banks in many counties.

Hailstones "as large as goose eggs" were reported near Bremen in Fairfield county and "as large as hen's eggs" near McConnelsville in Morgan county.

One Fairfield county farmer, Ed Dupler, who saw 50 windpanes of his buildings shattered by the stones, estimated his total damage at more than $1,000. Nearly 50 holes were punctured in the top of an automobile driven by Forrest Wilkins of Lancaster.

For several hours water stood three feet deep over portions of the Pennsylvania railroad tracks between Lancaster and Bremen.

KNISLEY CAUGHT SUDETEN CHIEF IN PIKE COUNTY DELAYS PARLEY

Search For Green County Jail Fugitive Ends At Laparell Hollow

WAVERLY, May 24.—(UP)—A 24-day search for Harold "Flick" Knisley, fugitive from the Green county jail at Xenia, ended today with his capture in a house in Laparell Hollow, two miles from Latham, in the Pike county hills.

Officers from Green and Highland counties and state highway patrolmen drove to the house during a rainstorm about 12:30 a. m. A woman came to the door but said Knisley was not there.

Sheriff George Henkel of Greene county and Deputy Robert Chambliss searched the house and found Knisley and an older man in a bedroom. Knisley was armed with a shotgun.

Retreating, the officers threw tear gas bombs into the room. The older man came out. Finally, Knisley came out, blinded by the gas. Not a shot was fired.

Knisley picked a lock and attacked a negro turnkey in the Greene county jail on April 30. He was to be arraigned today on indictments charging breaking and entering in connection with two Greene county burglaries last November and another indictment charging assault with intent to maim as a result of the attack upon the turnkey.

A $300 reward was divided among Highland county officers and Pike county residents who furnished information leading to Knisley's arrest.

40 NATIONALIST PLANES ATTACK LOYALIST PORT

PERPIGNAN, France, May 24.—(UP)—Forty Nationalist airplanes, presumably from Majorca in the Balearic islands, dropped bombs on Port Bou, across the Spanish border, at 10:40 a. m. today. The frontier was closed and details of the damages or number of victims could not be ascertained.

HENDAYE, May 24.—(UP)—The Nationalists today rushed reinforcements to the important bridgehead at Balaguer, on the upper Segre river, where repeated Loyalist assaults were developing into a major battle on the Catalan front.

The Spanish Loyalist press agency said the Nationalists also were taking precautions to guard their rear as the result of the uprising of Phalangists in the prison at Pamplona, where many of them were awaiting execution for assaults on Italian forces.

The revolt which was fomented two months ago, was climaxed by the arrest of a Nationalist general, Juan Yague, for a speech attacking foreign elements on the Nationalist side, the agency said.

House Expected To Pass Administration Bill Before Nightfall

LINES REMAIN INTACT

Regional Differentials Asked By Ramspeck

WASHINGTON May 24.—(UP)—Southern Democrats today sought to revise the wage hour bill to provide regional wage differentials as the measure, with full administration backing, headed toward final action—probably passage—before nightfall.

With almost solid backing of southern Democratic forces, Rep. Robert Ramspeck, D., Ga., offered a substitute bill to replace the measure placed before the house by Chairman Mary T. Norton of the labor committee.

His action exploded the second day's fight in the house over the measure to provide a wage floor for workers and a ceiling for their hours. Although it touched off heated debate, backers of wage hour legislation, holding their lines intact, predicted they would retain their original bill and win house passage before adjournment tonight.

Ramspeck's substitute, containing the house labor committee's bill for universal minimum wage and maximum hour standards, would establish a five-member board to determine where lower standards must be applied on the basis of local living costs and the value of a worker's services.

His proposal provides an initial minimum wage of not more than five cents an hour above the weighted average of pay in any labor classification. On order of the board, the wage may be increased not more than five cents an hour a year until a 40 cent minimum wage is reached.

The initial maximum hours would be 48, decreasing at discretion of the board to 40 hours.

The Norton bill before the house would provide an initial 25-cent hourly minimum wage, increasing in three annual steps to 40 cents, and a 44-hour maximum work week, decreasing in two annual steps to 40 hours.

The house membership was on the floor in almost full force as Ramspeck explained that the substitute had been agreed to by majority members of a house labor committee subcommittee before the Norton bill.

"This bill is in substance the bill that passed the senate last year," he said. "The only difference is that the board of five in this bill is selected on a geographical basis."

SHIP'S CAPTAIN DROWNS; GUARDS SAVE SIX MEN

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 24.—(UP)—Coast guardsmen today sought the body of Captain Thomas B. McGrattan, 55, master of the tug L. P. Smith, which capsized in a 45-mile-an-hour gale last night.

The storm caused extensive damage and imperiled several boats.

McGrattan was drowned and six others were rescued by the coast guard after the tug fouled its propeller on a towline and overturned in Lake Erie outside the harbor breakwall.

Four boys and three girls were rescued from Niagara river after their boats capsized. One of the boys was alone in the rowboat and the others were in a 16-foot sailboat.

Two other men were carried to safety by coast guardsmen when their fishing boat was blown against a breakwall. The tug clung to the wall for half an hour before being rescued.

Rowboats and pleasure craft were ripped from their moorings and set adrift on the choppy waters.

The initial maximum hours would be 48, decreasing at discretion of the board to 40 hours.

The Norton bill before the house would provide an initial 25-cent hourly minimum wage, increasing in three annual steps to 40 cents, and a 44-hour maximum work week, decreasing in two annual steps to 40 hours.

The house membership was on the floor in almost full force as Ramspeck explained that the substitute had been agreed to by majority members of a house labor committee subcommittee before the Norton bill.

"This bill is in substance the bill that passed the senate last year," he said. "The only difference is that the board of five in this bill is selected on a geographical basis."

SOLONS OPPOSE STATE LOTTERY BEFORE VOTERS

COLUMBUS, May 24.—(UP)—The house taxation committee today refused to recommend for passing a resolution proposing to submit to voters in November a constitutional amendment to permit operation lotteries in Ohio to raise money for future relief needs.

The resolution was sponsored by Rep. Patrick F. Monahan, D., Cuyahoga. The motion to recommend the resolution for passage was defeated by an 11 to 5 vote.

Motion to recommend the bill for passage was made by Rep. Sidney Hesse, D., Cuyahoga.

"The trend more and more is to legalize these things and let the state get the benefit of the money," Hesse said. "All we would do is to let the people say whether they do or do not want lotteries to raise money for relief."

His recommendation was opposed by Rep. Thomas Christy, D., Monroe, who admitted that gambling was prevalent but held that it was the duty of local officials to "stamp it out."

AUTO, GAS TAX FUND JUGGLING SEEN POSSIBLE

Legislature Discusses Plan To Help Governments Finance Relief

SEVERAL IDEAS OFFERED

Utilities, Beer, Admission Levies To Continue

COLUMBUS, May 24—(UP)—A proposal to help local government finance relief costs by re-allocation of automobile license tag and gasoline tax funds now used for roads received serious consideration by the house taxation committee today.

Rep. P. E. Ward, R. Geauga, submitted the plan as evidence accumulated of a decided sentiment against letting local governments enter excise tax fields now reserved to the state and against other parts of the program advanced by Governor Davey and city officials.

Ward also suggested a study to determine if certain taxes now going to be general revenue fund could be earmarked for the state's share of relief, noting that state income is considerably greater than in the past. He was instructed to present to the committee today estimates of the amount his proposed reallocation device would raise.

May Control Traffic

He proposed that counties be authorized to use up to 25 percent of automobile license tag funds for relief and that local traffic control be financed from motor vehicle license fee and gasoline tax money, thereby releasing a portion of general property taxes for poor relief purposes.

He indicated it would be necessary to issue notes in anticipation of the recommended diversions.

Ward anticipated opposition from road interests, but insisted that license tag and gasoline tax collections had so increased that roads could well be maintained even through road funds would be deprived of part of present revenues.

In a surprise move some rural members indicated a willingness to support a program that would not require local participation and to allocate state funds to counties strictly on a basis of need instead of by a formula system whereby counties without major relief problems have received money although they did not need it. Rural interests, heretofore, have insisted on a share of funds irrespective of needs.

Rep. R. J. Kiefer, P. Logan, however, suggested linking part of the farm bureau program with a bill to pledge anticipated collections from an extended utilities excise tax and beer and admissions taxes. He said money so raised should be given only to counties "which can show need." Other rural members of the taxation committee indicated support for the plan.

Those parts of the farm bureau program he suggested would increase the amusements tax from three to 10 percent and add 50 cents to the present one dollar liquor gallonage tax, the two were estimated to yield $8,000,000.

The utilities, beer and admission taxes, if extended for relief through 1940 have been estimated to raise $8,000,000.

Reallocation Talked

Discussion also arose over the possibility of reallocating or increasing intangibles and tangible personal property taxes. Rep. Edward J. Gardner, D. Butler, said he would reintroduce his bill to issue bonds or script against collection of delinquent taxes.

With the apparent disintegration of the program submitted at the first of the session it appeared likely that no complete alternative would be drafted until after the committee investigating urban conditions has reported. The house, however, will meet today and the senate tomorrow in working sessions.

The house welfare committee reported out a bill creating administrative machinery for relief distribution after rejecting the Myers amendment banning aliens from relief. The committee left in the prohibition against granting or relief to aliens who entered the country illegally.

It also rejected efforts to cut the state relief director's salary from $500 to $300 a month and deleted a clause giving him discretion to permit a greater than 12 percent administrative cost locally.

The senate taxation and relief committee will vote this morning on a similar bill and will take action on amendment by Sen. Don Thomas, D. Montgomery, intended to deny relief to aliens who came in illegally and providing that information as to arrival of aliens be made available to immigration officials who can determine whether they are entitled to remain in this country.

Henlein Goes Home After Long Conference With Premier Hodza

lem, it was said authoritatively today as Konrad Henlein, German minority leader, left for his home at Asch.

It had been expected that Henlein would see Hodza again today, to follow up their first conference which lasted 3 1/2 hours last night.

However, Henlein decided to go to Asch and then to Eger, to attend the funerals tomorrow of two minority Germans killed by frontier guards Saturday—the gravest incident of the week-end. It was believed that Henlein would deliver a funeral oration.

A Sudeten German party spokesman said that contact between Henlein and Hodza would continue.

"Once contact between our party leader and the premier had been established, and conversations started, Henlein's presence in Prague was unnecessary," the spokesman added.

As soon as they had explored the possibilities for agreement on a minorities statute granting a larger degree of self government to minority elements, the premier was expected to call in Hungarian and Polish leaders. They have their own demands for autonomy, overshadowed by those of the Germans because of the "protective interest" of the German Nazi government.

Agreement with all three minority political groups, German, Hungarian and Polish, would be calculated to avoid a conflict in which France and Russia are bound to come to Czechoslovakia's aid if she is attacked.

Czechoslovakia's population of 14,729,536 as given by the 1920 census includes 9,688,770 Czechs and Slovaks, 3,231,688 Germans, 691,923 Hungarians, 549,169 Russians, 81,737 Poles, 186,642 persons of Jewish nationality and 49,636 others. The total is completed with the inclusion of 249,971 aliens.

A terse communique, "the conversation serves to clarify and calm the political situation," issued after the Hodza-Henlein conference last night, indicated the delicacy of the first talk. Germans regarded the mere fact that there had been a conference as a gain. Until recently the government had been inclined to negotiate with parliamentary representatives of minority groups, and Henlein is not a member of parliament. In the talk last night he was accom-

CROSS PETITIONER WINS DIVORCE IN O'DAY CASE

Judge Phil A. Henderson, of Logan, who was given an assignment to Pickaway county for the trials of Roy Wallis, came to Circleville Tuesday to hear the contested divorce case of James O'Day against Alice O'Day, New Holland.

Mrs. O'Day was granted a divorce on her answer and cross petition on the grounds of cruelty. She was given the custody of two children, the household furniture and $7.50 a week for the support of the children.

Judge Henderson said he planned to return to Circleville Wednesday to handle some matters pending before the court. Judge Joseph W. Adkins has been in ill health in recent weeks and no jury cases have been set down for hearing.

panied by two parliamentary leaders, K. H. Frank, and Ernst Kundt. Despite the noncommittal tone of the communique, issued by agreement, it was indicated that the first meeting eased the international tension considerably.

Particularly because of the attitude of Great Britain, which has shown every determination to prevent an outbreak, the opinion here seemed to be that the conference marked a turning point after a week-end in which war was perilously close. It was suggested that now there was hope of a period during which both sides might study their programs.

BRITISH GUARD AGAINST RIOTS IN JAMAICA AREA

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 24—(UP)—British troops in armed lorries patrolled the streets of Kingston today to prevent recurrence of riots and violence by strikers and mobs which caused property losses estimated at $100,000. The troops guarded all public utilities.

In addition a local volunteer force was mobilized and sent out fully armed to help patrol the streets.

More than a score of persons were in hospitals with wounds suffered in rioting during the night when hoodlum elements charged special deputies, mainly clerks who were hastily sworn in when the trouble started yesterday.

Sporadic fighting was reported throughout the night. Police said criminal elements seized the opportunity, under the guise of supporting the strikers, to loot shops and assault citizens. About 40 persons were arrested.

Several small Chinese shops were looted and one was set afire. All public transportation, except taxis, was at a standstill.

lem, it was said authoritatively today as Konrad Henlein, German minority leader, left for his home at Asch.

It had been expected that Henlein would see Hodza again today, to follow up their first conference which lasted 3 1/2 hours last night.

However, Henlein decided to go to Asch and then to Eger, to attend the funerals tomorrow of two minority Germans killed by frontier guards Saturday—the gravest incident of the week-end. It was believed that Henlein would deliver a funeral oration.

A Sudeten German party spokesman said that contact between Henlein and Hodza would continue.

"Once contact between our party leader and the premier had been established, and conversations started, Henlein's presence in Prague was unnecessary," the spokesman added.

As soon as they had explored the possibilities for agreement on a minorities statute granting a larger degree of self government to minority elements, the premier was expected to call in Hungarian and Polish leaders. They have their own demands for autonomy, overshadowed by those of the Germans because of the "protective interest" of the German Nazi government.

Agreement with all three minority political groups, German, Hungarian and Polish, would be calculated to avoid a conflict in which France and Russia are bound to come to Czechoslovakia's aid if she is attacked.

Czechoslovakia's population of 14,729,536 as given by the 1930 census includes 9,688,770 Czechs and Slovaks, 3,231,688 Germans, 691,923 Hungarians, 549,169 Russians, 81,737 Poles, 186,642 persons of Jewish nationality and 49,636 others. The total is completed with the inclusion of 249,971 aliens.

A terse communique, "the conversation serves to clarify and calm the political situation," issued after the Hodza-Henlein conference last night, indicated the delicacy of the first talk. Germans regarded the mere fact that there had been a conference as a gain. Until recently the government had been inclined to negotiate with parliamentary representatives of minority groups, and Henlein is not a member of parliament. In the talk last night he was accompanied by two parliamentary leaders, K. H. Frank, and Ernst Kundt.

Despite the noncommittal tone of the communique, issued by agreement, it was indicated that the first meeting eased the international tension considerably.

Particularly because of the attitude of Great Britain, which has shown every determination to prevent an outbreak, the opinion here seemed to be that the conference marked a turning point after a week-end in which war was perilously close. It was suggested that now there was hope of a period during which both sides might study their programs.

CROSS PETITIONER WINS DIVORCE IN O'DAY CASE

Judge Phil A. Henderson, of Logan, who was given an assignment to pickaway county for the trials of Roy Walisa, came to Circleville Tuesday to hear the contested divorce case of James O'Day against Alice O'Day, New Holland.

Mrs. O'Day was granted a divorce on her answer and cross petition on the grounds of cruelty. She was given the custody of two children, the household furniture and $7.50 a week for the support of the children.

Judge Henderson said he planned to return to Circleville Wednesday to handle some matters pending before the court. Judge Joseph W. Adkins has been in ill health in recent weeks and no jury cases have been set down for hearing.

Ebert, executrix of Miss Lane's estate. It was filed by Joseph G. Martin, 937 Kelton avenue, Columbus. HUNTER, STAR OF SCREEN, TO UNDERGO TREATMENT

HOLLYWOOD, May 24—(UP)—Ian Hunter, English movie actor, was ordered by his physician today to undergo Pasteur treatment as a precaution against complications that might result from wounds inflicted by a dog suffering from rabies.

The dog that bit him was Hunter's pet. He was playing with the animal at his Malibu Beach home yesterday when the dog suddenly attacked him, biting him on the legs, arms and hands.

Tests made after the animal was killed showed that it was suffering from rabies. Hunter grappled with the dog until rescuers arrived.

The actor had been scheduled to start a new picture, "Three Girls on Broadway," today but Warner brothers studio announced that work on the movie would be delayed until Hunter recovered.

TWO ALCATRAZ GUARDS BLOCK TRIO'S ESCAPE

One Prison Official Goes To Hospital; Second's Identity Withheld
PRISONER INJURED, TOO
Break Attempt Is First Since Two Disappeared

BULLETIN
SAN FRANCISCO, May 24—(UP)—Thomas R. Limerick, one of three convicts who attempted to escape yesterday from Alcatraz island—famed as America's "Devil's Island"—died today from a wound inflicted by a guard.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24—(UP)—R. C. Cline, Alcatraz prison guard who stood in the way of three desperate convicts when they sought unsuccessfully to fight their way out of the American "Devil's Island" yesterday, was so near death today that physicians despaired of his life.

Wounded by blows from a hammer in the hands of one of the felons, Cline was removed to the Marine hospital on the mainland shortly after a guard—the man who single-handedly broke up the escape plot but whose name prison officials withheld—had frustrated the criminals in their plans to gain freedom.

Rufus Franklin, serving a life sentence for murder in Alabama, also was in serious condition from shoulder wounds inflicted by the unidentified guard. Franklin and one of his confederates, Thomas R. Limerick, bank robber and kidnaper, were in the prison hospital.

The attempt of Franklin, Limerick and James C. Lucas, bank robber, to escape, was the first at Alcatraz since Ralph Roe and Ted Cole dived into the waters of San Francisco bay last December and disappeared. They still are missing.

So far as has been established, no prisoner ever has made a successful break from Alcatraz. Most authorities believe that Roe and Cole were swept out to sea when they plunged into the bay.

Cline and the three convicts were in the woodwork shop of the factory yesterday. Cline carried no gun because guards are never armed inside a prison where convicts might obtain their weapons.

The men apparently had been planning their attack for several days. Without warning, they leaped on Cline and struck him with a hammer. He was knocked unconscious.

The convicts ran to a window and pulled themselves to the top of the factory building. There, Warden James Johnston believed, the men hoped to find an armed guard from whom they could wrest a weapon.

But the unidentified guard upset the criminals' plans. He opened fire. Franklin was hit in the shoulder. Limerick had carried a piece of iron with him from the work shop. He threw that at the guard, but the guard jumped out of the way and shot Limerick.

Lucas, the man who stabbed Al Capone in the June 1936 incident at the prison, had fled to cover. He surrendered and was returned to his cell.

Johnston refused to discuss disciplinary action against the men. All officials of the prison maintained the usual secrecy surrounding their investigation.

The Federal Bureau of Prisons announced that Alcatraz would be made escape proof after Roe and Cole were successful in reaching the bay. But steps that have been taken toward the government's plans into effect have not been revealed.

Limerick was convicted in Sioux Falls, S. D., of robbing a national bank. He was received at Alcatraz in October of 1935. Franklin was sent to the government's prison fortress from Kilby, Ala., where he was convicted of murder. Lucas, who once escaped from the Texas state prison, was convicted of bank robbery and assault to murder at Abilene, Tex.

Lucas attacked Capone with a pair of scissors. Capone, it was reported, had refused to join other prisoners in a protest against disciplinary methods and they were resentful. Guards subdued Lucas after he had cut Capone in the back and in one hand. Capone was not hurt seriously.

Scioto Grain Company Buys Traction Building

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

A real estate deal of considerable importance was transacted here Monday. The Valley Service Company, which has to do with the operation of the bus line through here, sold to the Scioto Grain and Supply Co., the old traction lot facing Main street through to Cromley street on the west and north to within a few feet of the sub-station power building. The purchase price was not named.

The recent freeze, Dick Hedges said, saved a lot of fine labor for strawberry pickers because there are next to none to pick. But Edwin Erwin, when the freeze was about to demolish his patch, berries and all, "put one over on it" by making a substantial straw covering and the finest berries you "ever laid eyes on" are being harvested now. The patch, some half-acre is a part of the Billie Bowers' 12-acre farm out by the water pump station. . . .Talked with several farmers yesterday who said their corn is up and growing fine and the weeds doing equally well, if not better. And another several who are not through planting yet, said it always had quit raining and guessed it would this time.

Worker's Hand Hurt
Sometimes we get the idea that what happens is bad or tough luck, but when one gets away with much less injury than could have happened to him, it's of the "good luck" variety. We refer to the accident which happened to Harry Fridley Saturday at the Hedges Lumber Company wood working shop. Mr. Fridley reached too near a swiftly revolving piece of machinery and the back part of his right hand was caught in it, causing a severe flesh wound.

Gregg Is Bee Man
Sam Gregg is the Ashville "bee man", that is he has three colonies of bees, and knowing of no one here having more, is why we call him the "bee man". These three "stands" are enough for him, he says, and he does not care for more. Following these rains there will be millions of white clover blossoms and there is where the finest quality honey stays. So we'll try and keep on friendly terms with Sam until some of this fine honey gets into storage. Some years more than a half century ago, there was a boy up in Madison township who was his Dad's helper among 75 colonies of bees. Honey bees are not nearly so "ferocious" as they seem, and if handled gently, are your good friends.

Bernice Myers, 15, daughter of Denver and Mrs. Myers, was removed to a Columbus hospital Monday to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Class is Graduated
Amidst capious tears of joy from the skies without in the form of rain, and within, the senior class of the Ashville High school of 1938 composed of 24 members was going through graduating exercises called a commencement. The decorations, class colors and flowers, formed a beautiful setting for the occasion. The usual musical numbers, salutation, class history, class prophesy, valedictory, class address and diploma presentation with invocation and benediction, made up the exercises and this class of fine youngsters are making a good start and what success they may achieve in life is largely in their own making.

GARDENERS WHO GROW TOMATOES FACING PROBLEM

Persons Who Have Plants In Reserve Better Off Than Others

REPLACEMENT ADVISED

Normal Safe Date Of May 15 Advised By Expert

Many Ohio gardeners and farmers who tempted fate by setting out tomato plants before the normal safe date of May 15 now are confronted with the problem of replacing frost-killed plants or deciding to leave the damaged plants to recover if possible, according to J. H. Boyd, specialist in vegetable gardening at Ohio State university.

Mr. Boyd believes the problem should be decided by whether the owner of the damaged plants has a supply of plants in reserve to replace those injured by frost. Plants should be replaced if suitable plants are available; but if plants must be obtained from a distance, there probably will be little gained by replacements.

There were different degrees of frost damage in various sections of the state. Some plants were so badly frozen there is no chance of their recovering. Others will renew their growth. Each grower will need to inspect his plants carefully to find if there is any evidence of new growth since they were frozen.

Growers who wish to take a chance on frost damage by setting plants in the field early sometimes cash in on their gamble with the weather. However, Mr. Boyd declares there never is any gain in setting out tomatoes when the soil is cold. The check to their growth will offset the time advantage.

HOUSE LISTENS TO APPEAL FOR GAMBLING LAWS
COLUMBUS, May 24—(UP)—Proponents of legislation to legalize gambling today were promised further hearings before the house taxation committee which heard preliminary arguments on gambling bills as it explored the possibilities for raising relief funds.

Rep. Patrick F. Monahan, D., Cuyahoga, pleaded with the committee to recommend his joint resolution proposing submission of a constitutional amendment to permit operation of lotteries.

He also argued for a bill to legalize bookmaking, explaining the proposed $5,000 license fee would provide "$4,500,000 and $5,000,000" annually in state revenue.

"Why shouldn't the state get this revenue?" he asked. "People are getting horses anyway. It's going on and the money is going right into the pockets of some petty politician. Report this bill to the floor and let 'em fight it out in the house."

Rep. Jacob F. Myers D., Franklin, also argued in support of his bill to legalize and license virtually all forms of gambling, including "numbers writing."

"The way the games are running now it (the bill) would raise $20,000,000 or $22,000,000," he said.

"All the school children and the good church people are playing and we're making crooks of our police," he said in reference to the "numbers" game, contending that illegal gambling was undermining respect for law.

TWO ALCATRAZ GUARDS BLOCK TRIO'S ESCAPE

One Prison Official Goes To Hospital; Second's Identity Withheld

PRISONER INJURED, TOO
Break Attempt Is First Since Two Disappeared

BULLETIN
SAN FRANCISCO, May 24—(UP)—Thomas R. Limerick, one of three convicts who attempted to escape yesterday from Alcatraz island—famed as America's "devil's island"—died today from a wound inflicted by a guard.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24—(UP)—R. C. Cline, Alcatraz prison guard who stood in the way of three desperate convicts when they sought unsuccessfully to fight their way out of the American "Devil's island" yesterday, was so near death today that physicians despaired of his life.

Wounded by blows from a hammer in the hands of one of the felons, Cline was removed to the Marine hospital on the mainland shortly after a guard—the man who single-handedly broke up the escape plot but whose name prison officials withheld—had frustrated the criminals in their plans to gain freedom.

Rufus Franklin, serving a life sentence for murder in Alabama, also was in serious condition from shoulder wounds inflicted by the unidentified guard. Franklin and one of his confederates, Thomas R. Limerick, bank robber and kidnaper, were in the prison hospital.

The attempt of Franklin, Limerick and James C. Lucas, bank robber, to escape, was the first at Alcatraz since Ralph Roe and Ted Cole dived into the waters of San Francisco bay last December and disappeared. They still are missing.

So far as has been established, no prisoner ever has made a successful break from Alcatraz. Most authorities believe that Roe and Cole were swept out to sea when they plunged into the bay.

Cline and the three convicts were in the woodwork shop of the factory yesterday. Cline carried no gun because guards are never armed inside a prison where convicts might obtain their weapons.

The men apparently had been planning their attack for several days. Without warning, they leaped on Cline and struck him with a hammer. He was knocked unconscious.

The convicts ran to a window and pulled themselves to the top of the factory building. There, Warden James Johnston believed, the men hoped to find an armed guard from whom they could wrest a weapon.

But the unidentified guard upset the criminals' plans. He opened fire. Franklin was hit in the shoulder. Limerick had carried a piece of iron with him from the work shop. He threw that at the guard, but the guard jumped out of the way and shot Limerick.

Lucas, the man who stabbed Al Capone in the June 1936 incident at the prison, had fled to cover. He surrendered and was returned to his cell.

Johnston refused to discuss disciplinary action against the men. All officials of the prison maintained the usual secrecy surrounding their investigation.

The Federal Bureau of Prisons announced that Alcatraz would be made escape proof after Roe and Cole were successful in reaching the bay. But steps that have been taken toward the government's plans into effect have not been revealed.

Limerick was convicted in Sioux Falls, S. D., of robbing a national bank. He was received at Alcatraz in October of 1935. Franklin was sent to the government's prison fortress from Kilby, Ala., where he was convicted of murder. Lucas, who once escaped from the Texas state prison, was convicted of bank robbery and assault to murder at Abilene, Tex.

Lucas attacked Capone with a pair of scissors. Capone, it was reported, had refused to join other prisoners in a protest against disciplinary methods and they were resentful. Guards subdued Lucas after he had cut Capone in the back and in one hand. Capone was not hurt seriously.

Scioto Grain Company Buys Traction Building

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

A real estate deal of considerable importance was transacted here Monday. The Valley Service Company, which has to do with the operation of the bus line through here, sold to the Scioto Grain and Supply Co., the old traction lot facing Main street through to Cromley street on the west and north to within a few feet of the sub-station power building. The purchase price was not named.

The recent freeze, Dick Hedges said, saved a lot of fine labor for strawberry pickers because there are next to none to pick. But Edwin Erwin, when the freeze was about to demolish his patch, berries and all, "put one over on it" by making a substantial straw covering and the finest berries you "ever laid eyes on" are being harvested now. The patch, some half-acre is a part of the Billie Bowers' 12-acre farm out by the water pump station. . . .Talked with several farmers yesterday who said their corn is up and growing fine and the weeds doing equally well, if not better. And another several who are not through planting yet, said it always had quit raining and guessed it would this time.

Worker's Hand Hurt
Sometimes we get the idea that what happens is bad or tough luck, but when one gets away with much less injury than could have happened to him, it's of the "good luck" variety. We refer to the accident which happened to Harry Fridley Saturday at the Hedges Lumber Company wood working shop. Mr. Fridley reached too near a swiftly revolving piece of machinery and the back part of his right hand was caught in it, causing a severe flesh wound.

Gregg Is Bee Man
Sam Gregg is the Ashville "bee man", that is he has three colonies of bees, and knowing of no one here having more, is why we call him the "bee man". These three "stands" are enough for him, he says, and he does not care for more. Following these rains there will be millions of white clover blossoms and there is where the finest quality honey stays. So we'll try and keep on friendly terms with Sam until some of this fine honey gets into storage. Some years more than a half century ago, there was a boy up in Madison township who was his Dad's helper among 75 colonies of bees. Honey bees are not nearly so "ferocious" as they seem, and if handled gently, are your good friends.

Girl in Hospital
Bernice Myers, 15, daughter of Denver and Mrs. Myers, was removed to a Columbus hospital Monday to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Pettibone Rites
The funeral of William Pettibone will be held at the United Brethren church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Smith conducting the services. Burial in charge of E. F. Schlegel, will be at So. Bloomfield.

Class is Graduated
Amidst capious tears of joy from the skies without in the form of rain, and within, the senior class of the Ashville High school of 1938 composed of 24 members was going through graduating exercises called a commencement. The decorations, class colors and flowers, formed a beautiful setting for the occasion. The usual musical numbers, salutation, class history, class prophesy, valedictory, class address and diploma presentation with invocation and benediction, made up the exercises and this class of fine youngsters are making a good start and what success they may achieve in life is largely in their own making.

BURNS, ALLEN TO HAWAII
Gracie Allen, who learned to play the ukelele—that is, she said she had learned—for a recent Burns and Allen broadcast, has mastered the instrument just in time.

The reason is that George and Gracie, following the lead of Tony Martin, will vacation in the Hawaiian Islands this Summer, cruising to Honolulu when they check off the airplanes August 1.

Sponsors of the present Burns and Allen series have given the comedy team an eight week vacation before they start their new session for another sponsor in October.

George and Gracie expect to sail August 4, returning in September to prepare for their Fall broadcasts.

This Hawaiian interlude will break the Burns and Allen endurance record on the airways, as they have been broadcasting for four consecutive years with only one four-weeks layoff.

GARDENERS WHO GROW TOMATOES FACING PROBLEM

Persons Who Have Plants In Reserve Better Off Than Others

REPLACEMENT ADVISED

Normal Safe Date Of May 15 Advised By Expert

Many Ohio gardeners and farmers who tempted fate by setting out tomato plants before the normal safe date of May 15 now are confronted with the problem of replacing frost-killed plants or deciding to leave the damaged plants to recover if possible, according to J. H. Boyd, specialist in vegetable gardening at Ohio State university.

Mr. Boyd believes the problem should be decided by whether the owner of the damaged plants has a supply of plants in reserve to replace those injured by frost. Plants should be replaced if suitable plants are available; but if plants must be obtained from a distance, there probably will be little gained by replacements.

There were different degrees of frost damage in various sections of the state. Some plants were so badly frozen there is no chance of their recovering. Others will renew their growth. Each grower will need to inspect his plants carefully to find if there is any evidence of new growth since they were frozen.

Growers who wish to take a chance on frost damage by setting plants in the field early sometimes cash in on their gamble with the weather. However, Mr. Boyd declares there never is any gain in setting out tomatoes when the soil is cold. The check to their growth will offset the time advantage.

As usual there will be a lot of weddings this June and I think some of us married men should give a word of encouragement to the young men who are about to take that step and might be gettin' a little bit shaky. In the first place it'll make your job more permanent.

I know one man who won't hire an unmarried man. When I asked him "Why?" He says "Well, I am pretty blunt and over-bearing and I find that married men don't get so upset when I yell at 'em."

Lumber Company to Have Home Display, Thursday

Persons contemplating the construction of new homes or improvements on properties they own now will be interested in the Home Show to be conducted Thursday afternoon and evening at the Circleville Lumber Co.

The show consists of a street of miniature homes. Each home is attractively designed and accurately constructed to the last detail. Interiors are beautifully decorated and completely furnished in miniature.

There will be demonstrations of various painting materials, suggestions for exterior and interior decorating, the proper arrangement of furniture, and proper type of draperies to be used.

Persons who attend the show may take a vase, bottle or similar piece of glassware with them and it will be decorated with quick-dry enamel, free of charge.

F. H. A. Detailed
Complete information concerning the miniature homes and numerous others shown in color paintings, will be given. A representative of the F. H. A. will explain details of the plan and assist persons in figuring on the type of property they desire.

Suggestions will be given on home improvements, color schemes for room interiors, and various other items that add to attractiveness and convenience.

Five-trained attendants, all experts in home designing and decoration, accompany the display. Information will be given on insulating materials. A door prize will be offered.

Arranged by Association
The show will be presented in the center drive at the company's plant on Edison avenue. It is being brought to the Circleville Lumber Co., through cooperation with the Peter Kuntz Associated Lumbermen. The association, of which Tom O. Gilliland, manager of the Circleville Lumber Co. is a member, arranged to have the miniature display constructed.

The Circleville Lumber Co. observes its 25th year in business this year.

Rep. Patrick F. Monahan, D. Cuyahoga, pleaded with the committee to recommend his joint resolution proposing submission of a constitutional amendment to permit operation of lotteries.

He also argued for a bill to legalize bookmaking, explaining the proposed $5,000 license fee would provide "$4,500,000 and $5,000,000" annually in state revenue.

"Why shouldn't the state get this revenue?" he asked. "people are getting horses anyway. It's going on and the money is going right into the pockets of some petty politician. Report this bill to the floor and let 'em fight it out in the house."

Rep. Jacob F. Myers D. Franklin, also argued in support of his bill to legalize and license virtually all forms of gambling, including "numbers writing."

"The way the games are running now it (the bill) would raise $20,000,000 or $22,000,000" he said.

"All the school children and the good church people are playing and we're making crooks of our police," he said in reference to the "numbers" game, contending that illegal gambling was undermining respect for law.

SOCKING THE UMPIRE
THERE are natural differences of opinion about the police court case in Huntington, W. Va., where a young baseball player was arraigned for punching the umpire.

As the prisoner at the bar explained the case to the judge, he was batting and the umpire called a strike on a ball that was away outside the plate. The batter protested, the umpire refused to listen to reason, the argument waxed hot, and the batter just naturally hit him.

"Case dismissed!" said His Honor. "It is the inalienable right of a baseball player to get mad and have a fight with the umpire."

Now, it isn't pleasant for any mere layman to talk back to the judiciary, especially when the judge is greeted with such a chorus of praise as has come to him. But, some may ask, what about the umpire who got his face punched for a decision that he doubtless thought was right? Isn't a baseball umpire a member of the judiciary of sport? And what is going to happen to the souls, minds and jobs of umpires if it is permissible for litigants in a ball game to sock them for their decisions?

May a layman not challenge the judicial statement that a baseball player has "an inalienable right to fight with the umpire" and thus, by plain implication, the right to do him bodily harm? We find no such authorization in the Constitution of the United States or the rules of the baseball leagues, major or minor.

Perhaps, though, His Honor was invoking the common law of baseball, which underlies, and is older than, all written law. When the judiciary takes refuge in the basic, traditional law, there's no use arguing about it.

THE ATYPUS
CHEER up! The human race, after all, is not to be denied knowledge of the living habits of the "Lost Atypus." The atypus, it seems, isn't even lost. This is a rare spider of a species that for seventy-five years was thought to be extinct. Then, between 1912 and 1938, six specimens were found. That number has suddenly been increased by more than a dozen, secured in Florida by members of a spider expedition of the American Museum of Natural History.

The scientists have just returned from a seven-week trip through Florida, during which they covered 2,200 miles and pursued their spider search day and night. Now the living atypus can be studied. A gap in the story of spiders can be filled with knowledge obtained through careful scientific observation. And all the people

SEC CRACKS DOWN ON NAZIS

WASHINGTON—Another U. S. agency has cracked down on the Hitler Government.

Duplicating Secretary Ickes' refusal to sell helium to the Nazis, the Securities and Exchange Commission has barred the further issuance of German refunding bonds in this country. In taking this stand the SEC reversed a previous ruling made under ex-Chairman James Landis, now Dean of the Harvard law school.

Under his ruling, the SEC OK'd a registration statement in March, 1937, filed by the Deutsches Konversion's Kasse for the issuance of $60,000,000 of so-called "dollar" bonds, to cover defaulted interest payments on German municipal and industrial securities held by Americans. The registration statement was approved over the vigorous protest of Commissioner Robert Healy.

His challenge was based on the statement's failure to give the Commission the information the Securities Act requires a prospective bond issuer to make public regarding his total indebtedness. Healy argued that if American corporations had to abide by the law, there was no reason why foreign governments should not be forced to do likewise.

With the SEC's approval in its hands the Konversions Kasse, through its financial agents in this country, proceeded to exchange the refunding bonds for defaulted coupons. How many bonds have been distributed is not known.

Several weeks ago, however, SEC Chairman Douglas reopened the question of the legality of the Kasse's registration declaration, under a provision of the law which requires the submission of new information thirteen months after the filing of a prospectus. This time the SEC demanded detailed information on an item listed as "Unrecorded Debt" in the original registration.

The Kasse replied that it could not supply the information because the German Government would not furnish it.

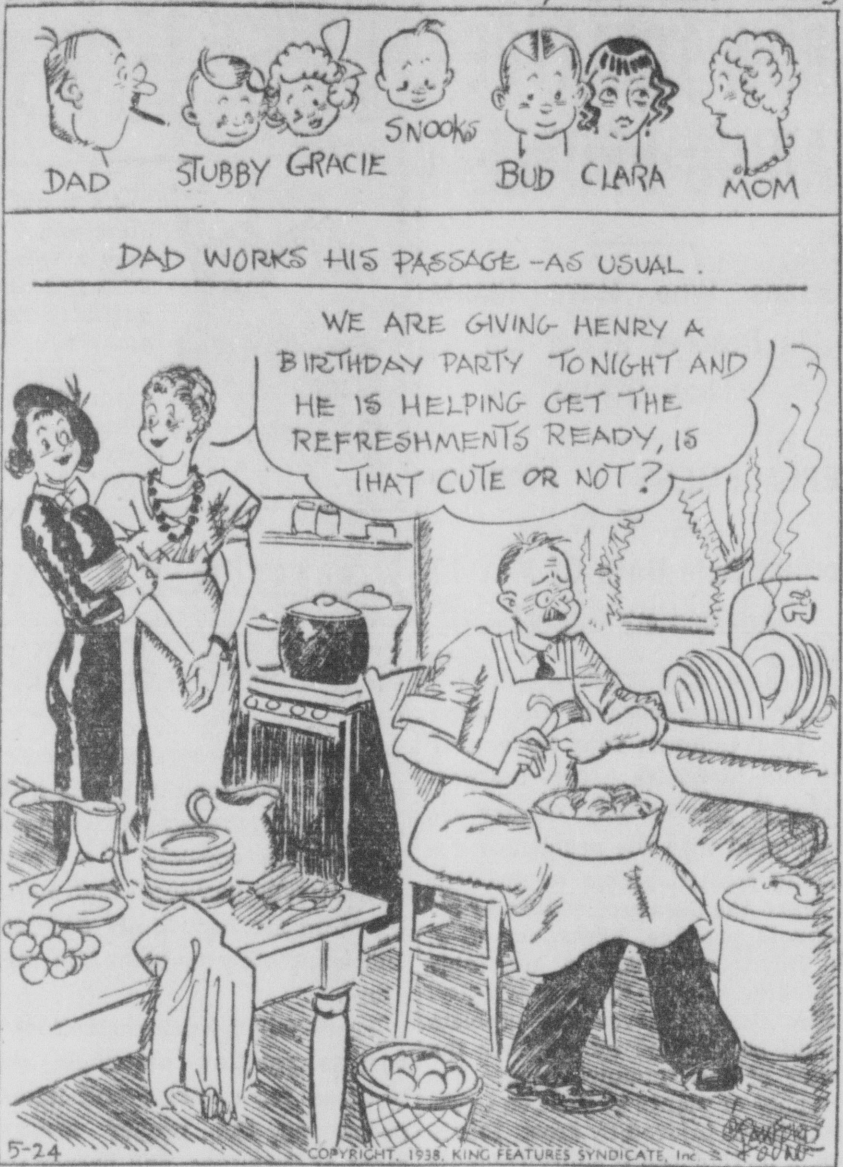

To which the SEC, in effect, answered: "The Kasse is an agency of the German Government, and for it to say that the German Government will not furnish the required information is merely a subterfuge to evade the law. No information, no more bonds."

And that is the present status of the controversy. The Kasse has not met the SEC's demands, and the SEC has halted further distribution of the refunding bonds. The next move is up to the Nazi Government.

who don't like spiders and shudder at thought of one, can just turn their attention to something else. No entomologists will stick spiders down their backs, and no one will make them look at the terrifying things in their glass cases at the museum. But they shouldn't object to the rejoicing of scientists keen on contributing something to the slowly growing knowledge of life upon this earth.

We didn't have "economic cycles" or "periods of industrial recession" in the good old days. All we had then were bank panics and dull business.

Doctor Hears Music Used as Medicine

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I ATTENDED a concert the other night that was, so far as I can remember, a unique event. It was a program of music that at one time or other in the world's history has been used in connection with medicine.

The effects of music on sickness, especially nervous sickness, has been known for a long time. David was called upon to play before Saul, when the melancholy fit was on the king. Everyone must have experienced the change of mood that can follow listening to a great symphony. Songs can charm you out of depression, and grouches vanish before the spirited rendition of a dance number.

The pieces I heard the other night were three. The first was a melody composed by the court jester, who was also the court musician, to soothe the great Duke of Mantua in the early sixteenth century, when he lay very ill. It was a light and airy apostrophe, urging him to be once again his gay self, and to forget the cloud of disease that hung over him.

The second was the tune called "The Tarantella." It was played under remarkable circumstances. In the Middle Ages in certain parts of Italy especially, it was supposed that the bite of a spider, the tarantula, caused the victim to dance and jump around.

"Ha! Ha! The fellow is dancing."

READ THIS FIRST:
Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, has just been rescued from a band of Yaqui Indians, holding him for ransom, through a bold move on the part of Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star. Ellen and Bill have been staying at the wealthy Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Also rescued with Bill was Panola Montoya, the ranch owner's daughter whose invitation to ride with her led to their capture by the Yaqui. As they return to the ranch, Bill and Ellen find Don Julio, their host, and his son, Felix, with a large following of Mexicans, in hot pursuit of the Yaqui. Ellen begs them to desist.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:
CHAPTER 14
BECAUSE it was Ellen Dale who had effected the rescue of their daughter, the Montoyas heeded her advice and agreed to come on back down the mountain with their armed men. Ellen had been vehement about it, declaring an agreement must be kept even with savage Indians. When his temper had cooled, Don Julio realized the truth of that and told her so. And yet—traditional hatred is strong!

All of them were anxious only for food and rest when they eventually returned safe to the ranch home. But when the next dawn came, Ellen and Bill made immediate preparations for leaving Mexico. Their departure having been delayed by a wholly unexpected and dangerous incident, they meant now to get back to the United States as soon as possible. But Felix Montoya sought to hold them.

"Panola say that the fiesta had been arranged in your honor, senorita," he addressed Ellen. "It is even more important that we have it now, for you have save her life."

"Thank you, but I'm afraid we must go," Ellen smiled at him. "I am sure that I have your gratitude, Senor Montoya. And we have imposed on your family's kindness too much already."

"No, no," he protested. "Please stay. You will have no more danger. We will have the party—a grand ball, senorita!—tomorrow night. I ask for the honor of being your escort myself. I come with the flower to ask it!"
Felix had indeed come with "the flower." He held the box out to her, and Ellen was amazed at the beauty she found within.

"Love-ly!" exclaimed she, and meant it, burying her face in them to drink in their fragrance. "Wherever did you get them?"
They were blossoms that no florists ever offered for sale, delicate but showy things which grew wild back in the shaded canyons of the Montoya ranch. Felix said he had made servants gather them in the early dawn, and maids had arranged them for him with fine taste.

"It is happy to see you like them, senorita. They are no lovelier than she who receives them." He bowed in courtly manner. Ellen, not a little surprised, could only smile in acknowledgment. "You will stay, then? For the fiesta?"

SEC CRACKS DOWN ON NAZIS
WASHINGTON—Another U. S. agency has cracked down on the Hitler Government.
Duplicating Secretary Ickes' refusal to sell helium to the Nazis, the Securities and Exchange Commission has barred the further issuance of German refunding bonds in this country. In taking this stand the SEC reversed a previous ruling made under ex-Chairman James Landis, now Dean of the Harvard law school.
Under his ruling, the SEC OK'd a registration statement in March, 1937, filed by the Deutsches Konversion's Kasse for the issuance of $60,000,000 of so-called "dollar" bonds, to cover defaulted interest payments on German municipal and industrial securities held by Americans. The registration statement was approved over the vigorous protest of Commissioner Robert Healy.
His challenge was based on the statement's failure to give the Commission the information the Securities Act requires a prospective bond issuer to make public regarding his total indebtedness. Healy argued that if American corporations had to abide by the law, there was no reason why foreign governments should not be forced to do likewise.
With the SEC's approval in its hands the Konversions Kasse, through its financial agents in this country, proceeded to exchange the refunding bonds for defaulted coupons. How many bonds have been distributed is not known.
Several weeks ago, however, SEC chairman Douglas reopened the question of the legality of the Kasse's registration declaration, under a provision of the law which requires the submission of new information thirteen months after the filing of a prospectus. This time the SEC demanded detailed information on an item listed as "Unrecorded Debt" in the original registration.
The Kasse replied that it could not supply the information because the German Government would not furnish it.
To which the SEC, in effect, answered: "The Kasse is an agency of the German Government, and for it to say that the German Government will not furnish the required information is merely a subterfuge to evade the law. No information, no more bonds."
And that is the present status of the controversy. The Kasse has not met the SEC's demands, and the SEC has halted further distribution of the refunding bonds. The next move is up to the Nazi Government.

SOCKING THE UMPIRE
THERE are natural differences of opinion about the police court case in Huntington, W. Va., where a young baseball player was arraigned for punching the umpire.

As the prisoner at the bar explained the case to the judge, he was batting and the umpire called a strike on a ball that was away outside the plate. The batter protested, the umpire refused to listen to reason, the argument waxed hot, and the batter just naturally hit him.

"Case dismissed!" said His Honor. "It is the inalienable right of a baseball player to get mad and have a fight with the umpire."

Now, it isn't pleasant for any mere layman to talk back to the judiciary, especially when the judge is greeted with such a chorus of praise as has come to him. But, some may ask, what about the umpire who got his face punched for a decision that he doubtless thought was right? Isn't a baseball umpire a member of the judiciary of sport? And what is going to happen to the souls, minds and jobs of umpires if it is permissible for litigants in a ball game to sock them for their decisions?

May a layman not challenge the judicial statement that a baseball player has "an inalienable right to fight with the umpire" and thus, by plain implication, the right to do him bodily harm? We find no such authorization in the Constitution of the United States or the rules of the baseball leagues, major or minor.

Perhaps, though, His Honor was invoking the common law of baseball, which underlies, and is older than, all written law. When the judiciary takes refuge in the basic, traditional law, there's no use arguing about it.

THE ATYPUS
CHEER up! The human race, after all, is not to be denied knowledge of the living habits of the "Lost Atypus." The atypus, it seems, isn't even lost. This is a rare spider of a species that for seventy-five years was thought to be extinct. Then, between 1912 and 1938, six specimens were found. That number has suddenly been increased by more than a dozen, secured in Florida by members of a spider expedition of the American Museum of Natural History.
The scientists have just returned from a seven-week trip through Florida, during which they covered 2,200 miles and pursued their spider search day and night.
Now the living atypus can be studied. A gap in the story of spiders can be filled with knowledge obtained through careful scientific observation. And all the people who don't like spiders and shudder at thought of one, can just turn their attention to something else. No entomologists will stick spiders down their backs, and no one will make them look at the terrifying things in their glass cases at the museum. But they shouldn't object to the rejoicing of scientists keen on contributing something to the slowly growing knowledge of life upon this earth.

We didn't have "economic cycles" or "periods of industrial recession" in the good old days. All we had then were bank panics and dull business.

DIET AND HEALTH
Doctor Hears Music Used as Medicine

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I ATTENDED a concert the other night that was, so far as I can remember, a unique event. It was a program of music that at one time or other in the world's history has been used in connection with medicine.
The effects of music on sickness, especially nervous sickness, has been known for a long time. David was called upon to play before Saul, when the melancholy fit was on the king. Everyone must have experienced the change of mood that can follow listening to a great symphony. Songs can charm you out of depression, and grouches vanish before the spirited rendition of a dance number.
The pieces I heard the other night were three. The first was a melody composed by the court jester, who was also the court musician, to soothe the great Duke of Mantua in the early sixteenth century, when he lay very ill. It was a light and airy apostrophe, urging him to be once again his gay self, and to forget the cloud of disease that hung over him.
The second was the tune called "The Tarantella." It was played under remarkable circumstances. In the Middle Ages in certain parts of Italy especially, it was supposed that the bite of a spider, the tarantula, caused the victim to dance and jump around.
"Ha! Ha! The fellow is dancing mad. He hath been bitten by the tarantula."
This impulse to dance returned every spring and whole communities were giving way to it, whirling and spinning about for days at a time. Of course, it was a form of hysteria, not due to the spider's bite at all. But when this wave of wildness would hit a village, wandering musicians were called up to play these tunes, which were named "The Tarantella" and which finally calmed the excitement.
Lastly, was played a great hymn of supplication to Saint Sebastian, who was the patron saint of the plague, asking him to remove the plague from the land.
It was all very impressive and made one feel that music should be used more than it is for purposes of treatment, especially in nervous and mental disorders.
EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

READ THIS FIRST:
Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, has just been released from a band of Yaqui Indians, holding him for ransom, through a bold move on the part of Ellen Dale, Hollywood screen star. Ellen and Bill had been staying at the wealthy Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Also rescued with Bill was Panola Montoya, the ranch owner's daughter whose invitation to ride with her led to their capture by the Yaqui. As they return to the ranch, Bill and Ellen find Don Julio, their host, and his son, Felix, with a large following of Mexicans, in hot pursuit of the Yaqui. Ellen begs them to desist.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:
CHAPTER 14
BECAUSE it was Ellen Dale who had effected the rescue of their daughter, the Montoyas heeded her advice and agreed to come on back down the mountain with their armed men. Ellen had been vehement about it, declaring an agreement about it, keeping even with savage Indians. When his temper had cooled, Don Julio realized the truth of that and told her so. And yet—traditional hatred is strong!
All of them were anxious only for food and rest when they eventually returned safe to the ranch home. But when the next dawn came, Ellen and Bill made immediate preparations for leaving Mexico. Their departure having been delayed by a wholly unexpected and dangerous incident, they meant now to get back to the United States as soon as possible. But Felix Montoya sought to hold them.
"Panola say that the fiesta had been arranged in your honor, senorita," he addressed Ellen. "It is even more important that we have it now, for you have save her life."
"Thank you, but I'm afraid we must go," Ellen smiled at him. "I am sure that I have your gratitude, Senor Montoya. And we have imposed on your family's kindness too much already."
"No, no," he protested. "Please stay. You will have no more danger. We will have the party—a grand baile, senorita!—tomorrow night. I ask for the honor of being your escort myself. I come with the flower to ask it!"
Felix had indeed come with "the flower." He held the box out to her, and Ellen was amazed at the beauty she found within.
"Love-lo!" exclaimed she, and meant it, burying her face in them to drink in their fragrance. "Wherever did you get them?"
They were blossoms that no florists ever offered for sale, delicate but showy things which grew wild back in the shaded canyons of the Montoya ranch. Felix said he had made servants gather them in the early dawn, and maids had arranged them for him with fine taste.
"It is happy to see you like them, senorita. They are no lovelier than she who receives them." He bowed in courtly manner. Ellen, not a little surprised, could only smile in acknowledgment.
"You will stay, then? For the fiesta?"
run with amazing speed — they can keep abreast of a speeding car full of picknickers arriving at the picnic grove the same time as their human hosts—but I also believe they can read. How else could they know the Ladies' Aid was picknicking next Tuesday afternoon in Beanbutter's Grove if they didn't see the item in the paper?
"The life of the Holiday Termites is a gay one—fitting from picnic to picnic—leaving a trail of pie crumbs to mark where their small feet dance from potato chip to blueberry pie a la mode, dodging dill pickles as they went.
"What becomes of the picnic ants in the winter, you ask?" Zadok smiled wisely. "That's easy—they take to the air, southbound, and by the time Beanbutter's Grove slumbers beneath its first blanket of snow, the Holiday Termites, to an ant, are feasting on the picnic suppers of Australia and other points south."

Sorosis Club Learns Of 'Early Homes In Ohio'

34 at Luellen Residence for Meeting

Thirty-two members and two guests, Mrs. T. B. Gephart and Mrs. Donald Kempton, attended the interesting meeting of the Sorosis club, Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Lee Luellen, Williamsport.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. William Radcliff, president, who presided over the business session. Mrs. Wells Wilson, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and read the roll call.

Miss Mary Anderson was program leader, and read an informative paper on "Early Homes in Ohio". Among the outstanding examples of fine old homes mentioned was Mt. Oval, the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Young, Pickaway township. In speaking of the history of the home and of the arrangement of the rooms, Miss Anderson showed several pictures of the interior. She mentioned this as one of the best examples of early building and also as one of the best preserved in the tradition of the early times. The furnishings and lighting of the home are in keeping with the original ideas. Miss Anderson told many interesting facts concerning the Sinton-Taft home in Cincinnati and Mac-O-Chee Castle near West Liberty. At the close of Miss Anderson's paper, Miss Laura McGee directed the musical part of the program, having arranged a number of questions, which were answered by the club members singing appropriate songs.

Mrs. Kempton was then welcomed as a member of the organization. Mrs. Luellen assisted by Miss Grace Pinsenschaum served refreshments.

The next meeting of the club will be June 13 at the home of Mrs. William Dunlap, Williamsport.

SENATE'S PROBE OF TENNESSEE VALLEY TO OPEN

WASHINGTON, May 24—(UP)—The joint congressional committee named to investigate the Tennessee Valley Authority will hear testimony of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted T.V.A. chairman, and other directors beginning Wednesday. The investigation will begin without counsel.

The agreement was reached when a formal meeting scheduled for tomorrow to name the counsel and investigation staff was postponed until next week because several members could not attend.

Dr. James A. Mead, D. N. Y., vice-chairman of the 10-man committee, explained that Dr. Morgan will present his charges of malfeasance against his co-directors, David E. Lillenthal and Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan first and that the others will follow later in the week.

"The delay in appointing the counsel will not hamper the investigation because the committee wants the directors to offer all of their testimony before cross-examination," Mead said.

Judge Samuel Seabury, noted New York lawyer, reportedly is being considered as counsel.

FLOOD CONTROL ACT RELIEVES CONTRIBUTORS

WASHINGTON, May 24—(UP)—Taxpayers in the Muskingum conservancy district in Ohio would escape assessments of $4,500,000 under an amendment which the senate commerce committee has attached to the new flood control bill, it was disclosed today.

The 4,500,000 would be paid by the government, which already has allocated $25,590,000 to the project through the public works administration.

Committee members explained that the amendment was made to compensate the conservancy district for concessions made to other projects authorized under the new bill. The measure provides for a 70 percent reimbursement to local communities for the cost of land, damages and rights-of-way on proposed projects. Earlier flood control acts have required 100 percent local contributions for these items.

The effect of the amendment is to give a refund to the conservancy district on a project which is virtually completed. Under agreements between the district and P. W. A. in 1934 and 1935, the district agreed to assume $12,000,000 of the cost of the 14-reservoir system, the local funds to be used for land purchases and highway and utility relocations.

Only half of these local costs were to be assessed directly against the district, the state assuming the balance. The $4,000,000 estimated for highway relocations, which are to be paid by the state, have already exceeded that figure, according to officials here.

The amendment was understood to have originated with Representative Robert T. Secrest, D., Caldwell, who persuaded Senators Robert J. Bulkley, D., Ohio, and Vic Donahey, D., Ohio, to support it before the senate committee.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

IT IS ONLY BY deep digging and adequate manuring that prize-winning sweet peas can be grown. From the time the first buds appear until the end of the flowering season the vines should be fed. Weak manure water and soot water are ideal nourishments. Nitrate of soda or super phosphate

Beans do not require as much fertility as the leafy crops, such as lettuce, spinach and celery. Too much nitrogen tends to produce an excessive growth of stalk. Manure, or a complete fertilizer, is most desirable.

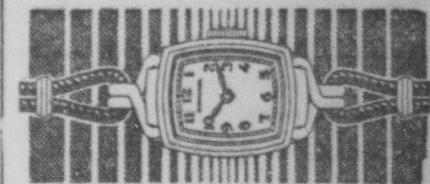

Growing prize winning sweet peas can be sprinkled on the mulch about the vines and then watered in thoroughly. Be careful to keep such fertilizers four or five inches away from the vines themselves. As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, sweet peas for show or exhibition purposes are usually grown on bamboo canes. Only one or two stems are allowed to develop, all side growths and tendrils should be pinched off. To keep the vines bearing, the flowers must be kept picked, since the vines cease to produce blooms when seed pods form.

Sorosis Club Learns Of 'Early Homes In Ohio'

34 at Luellen Residence for Meeting

Thirty-two members and two guests, Mrs. T. B. Gephart and Mrs. Donald Kempton, attended the interesting meeting of the Sorosis club, Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Lee Luellen, Williamsport.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. William Radcliff, president, who presided over the business session. Mrs. Wells Wilson, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and read the roll call.

Miss Mary Anderson was program leader, and read an informative paper on "Early Homes in Ohio". Among the outstanding examples of fine old homes mentioned was Mt. Oval, the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Young, Pickaway township. In speaking of the history of the home and of the arrangement of the rooms, Miss Anderson showed several pictures of the interior. She mentioned this as one of the best examples of early building and also as one of the best preserved in the tradition of the early times. The furnishings and lighting of the home are in keeping with the original ideas. Miss Anderson told many interesting facts concerning the Sinton-Taft home in Cincinnati and Mac-O-Chee Castle near West Liberty.

At the close of Miss Anderson's paper, Miss Laura McGhee directed the musical part of the program, having arranged a number of questions, which were answered by the club members singing appropriate songs.

Mrs. Kempton was then welcomed as a member of the organization. Mrs. Luellen assisted by Miss Grace Pinsenschaum served refreshments.

The next meeting of the club will be June 13 at the home of Mrs. William Dunlap, Williamsport.

SENATE'S PROBE OF TENNESSEE VALLEY TO OPEN

WASHINGTON, May 24—(UP)—The joint congressional committee named to investigate the Tennessee Valley Authority will hear testimony of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted T.V.A. chairman, and other directors beginning Wednesday. The investigation will begin without counsel.

The agreement was reached when a formal meeting scheduled for tomorrow to name the counsel and investigation staff was postponed until next week because several members could not attend.

Dr. James A. Mead, D. N. Y., vice-chairman of the 10-man committee, explained that Dr. Morgan will present his charges of malfeasance against his co-directors, David E. Lilienthal and Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan first and that the others will follow later in the week.

"The delay in appointing the counsel will not hamper the investigation because the committee wants the directors to offer all of their testimony before cross-examination," Mead said.

Judge Samuel Seabury, noted New York lawyer, reportedly is being considered as counsel.

FLOOD CONTROL ACT RELIEVES CONTRIBUTORS

WASHINGTON, May 24—(UP)—Taxpayers in the Muskingum conservancy district in Ohio would escape assessments of $4,500,000 under an amendment which the senate commerce committee has attached to the new flood control bill, it was disclosed today.

The 4,500,000 would be paid by the government, which already has allocated $25,590,000 to the project through the public works administration.

Committee members explained that the amendment was made to compensate the conservancy district for concessions made to other projects authorized under the new bill. The measure provides for a 70 percent reimbursement to local communities for the cost of land, damages and rights-of-way on proposed projects. Earlier flood control acts have required 100 percent local contributions for these items.

The effect of the amendment is to give a refund to the conservancy district on a project which is virtually completed. Under agreements between the district and P. W. A. in 1934 and 1935, the district agreed to assume $12,000,000 of the cost of the 14-reservoir system, the local funds to be used for land purchases and highway and utility relocations.

Only half of these local costs were to be assessed directly against the district, the state assuming the balance. The $4,000,000 estimated for highway relocations, which are to be paid by the state, have already exceeded that figure, according to officials here.

The amendment was understood to have originated with Representative Robert T. Secrest, D., Caldwell, who persuaded Senators Robert J. Bulkley, D., Ohio, and Vic Donahey, D., Ohio, to support it before the senate committee.

Mrs. Edith Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ross and children, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Poling and family attended a birthday party for Mrs. W. Ross, Sunday.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

IT IS ONLY BY deep digging and adequate manuring that prize-winning sweet peas can be grown. From the time the first buds appear until the end of the flowering season the vines should be fed. Weak manure water and soot water are ideal nourishments. Nitrate of soda or super phosphate

Growing prize winning sweet peas can be sprinkled on the mulch about the vines and then watered in thoroughly. Be careful to keep such fertilizers four or five inches away from the vines themselves. As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, sweet peas for show or exhibition purposes are usually grown on bamboo canes. Only one or two stems are allowed to develop, all side growths and tendrils should be pinched off. To keep the vines bearing, the flowers must be kept picked, since the vines cease to produce blooms when seed pods form.

ROSS FAVORED AS FIGHT WITH TITLIST NEARS

NEW YORK, May 24—(UP)—Welterweight Champion Barney Ross remained today an 8-5 favorite to retain his title in Thursday's bout with Henry Armstrong of Los Angeles, featherweight title holder.

As both began tapering off their training today, Promoter Mike Jacobs said more than $80,000 worth of tickets had been sold, indicating a gate of at least $250,000 for the 15-round brawl in Madison Square garden bowl.

Ross arrived in New York last night to finish up at a local gymnasium after almost a month of hard work at Crossinger Lake, N. Y. He went through seven rounds of gymnasium exercises yesterday and then left for New York. He scaled a little over 141 pounds.

Armstrong will remain at his Pompton Lakes, N. J. camp until Thursday morning.

Meanwhile, a majority of boxing experts picked Ross. If he wins, he would be the first champion ever to retain a title in the garden bowl. Of 86 experts polled by the United Press, 50 picked Ross.

ALLEN VS. GOMEZ
CLEVELAND, May 24—(UP)—Johnny Allen, temperamental right-handed star of the Cleveland pitching staff, was to attempt to increase the Indians' American league lead here today when he faced the New York Yankees in the second game of the series.

"Lefty" Gomez was to oppose him.

Cincinnati Reds Hottest Team In National League

NEW YORK, May 24—(UP)—As the old order changes in the National league the Cincinnati Reds begin to look like a bona fide pennant threat. The Reds moved into the third place today, only four games behind the pace-setting Giants and a game and a half back of the second place Cubs.

While the Pirates and Cardinals, perennial first division clubs have slumped into the second division, the Reds have come up with an amazing rush. Right now they're playing the hottest ball in the league, with a record of five out of six victories on their present eastern trip. They've won four in a row and scored 39 runs to the opposition's 14 in the last six games.

Bill McKeehnle has built a sound ball club at Cincinnati. It was speed, hustle, balanced pitching and a timely, if not robust, attack. Barring Catcher Ernie Lombardi there isn't a slow man on the Reds' club. Dusty Cooke, Harry Craft and Ival Goodman are perhaps the league's fleetest outfield trio.

The pitching has been consistently good and may get better. Lefty Lee Grissom, counted the staff's ace, hasn't won a game yet but is expected to start pitching after he had a tonsil operation. Paul Derringer, John Vander Meer, Al Hollingsworth, Peaches Davis and Joe Cascarella have shared the brunt of the pitching thus far.

Shott Relieved
Cincinnati beat Brooklyn yesterday, 6-4. Goodman led the Red's 11-hit attack with two singles and two doubles. When Gene Shott weakened in the sixth Joe Cascarella came in and squelched the dodgers.

Pittsburgh scored four runs in the first inning to turn back the Giants, 4-3.

The Chicago Cubs snapped the Boston Bees' six-game winning streak with a 4-1 victory.

After spotting the St. Louis Cardinals five runs, the Phillies came from behind to win, 7-6.

All American league games were rained out.

NINE ATHLETES RECEIVE HONORS FOR TRACK WORK

Tiger Coach Jack Landrum issued letters to nine athletes, Tuesday, members of the Red and Black track team. Of the nine only two, Kenny Smith and James Davis, will not be back in the harness next Spring.

Lettermen include K. Smith, honoray captain; Robert Owens, Marvin Jenkins, Charles Zaenglein, Frank Woodward, Harold Smith, Paul Walters, James Davis and Robert Liston. Points scored by each during the year include: Jenkins, 54½; Zaenglein, 12; Woodward, 82½; K. Smith, 72½; H. Smith, 27½; Walters, 30½; Owens, 53½; Davis, 33; Liston, 31.

Patty Bennett received a letter as cheerleader; Tye Davis received an award as manager, and Ted Moon was given a letter for his consistent effort.

Five of the athletes will go to Columbus Friday for participation in the state meet. They will include K. Smith, H. Smith, Woodward, Owens, and Walters. The latter will be an alternate. Owens will perform in the quarter mile, K. Smith in the half mile, and K. Smith, Woodward and Owens in the mile relay. Owens must appear in the 440 qualifier Friday at 3 p. m., the others not running until Saturday.

MICKEY HEATH HOMERS TO SQUELCH MILLERS

COLUMBUS, May 24—(UP)—Mickey Heath, who has knocked about the minor leagues since 1924, today remained one of the most dangerous "clutch" hitters in the American Association.

Heath, 33 year old first baseman, has been with three Association clubs in the last five seasons. Over that stretch only once has he hit .300, but with runners on base he generally is "poison."

Heath hammered out a home run with the bases filled yesterday to aid the Milwaukee Brewers in grabbing a 7 to 3 victory over Minneapolis.

Jim Henry, Miller hurler, blanked Milwaukee for six innings, but ran into trouble in the seventh. Heath hammered out his circuit drive to account for four runs and then after Walter Tauscher relieved Henry, Lin Storti homered with two mates on.

Ted Williams, 19 year old Minneapolis outfielder and the league's leading home run hitter, added another circuit drive to his credit in the third inning with none on.

All other games in the Association were rained out.

SOFTBALL LOOP TO START PLAY NEXT TUESDAY

"If" Prevails Though With Field Muddy; Numerous Regulations Set

The Circleville recreation ball league took on new life Monday evening when managers met in the offices of the Circleville Oil Co. to discuss reopening of the schedule. The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. field is unplayable at the present time because of the recent heavy rains. It is hoped that the field will be dry enough for competition to resume next Tuesday evening.

The league now comprises seven teams, Bronzville Jollies, with Glenn Weaver as manager; Eshelman Feeds, Carl Purcell, manager; Ralston-Purina, with Tom Tomlinson, manager; Circleville Oils, Leslie May and William Carter, managers; Fenton Cleaners, F. E. Oyer, manager; Blue Ribbon Dairy, Ike Brungs and Merle Davis, managers; and South Bloomfield. Neither the Dairy nor South Bloomfield team was represented at Monday's meeting. All managers are urged to appear at another meeting arranged for Friday at 8 p. m. in the offices of The Daily Herald at which time tentative rosters of 15 players should be filed. Final rosters will be submitted before the second game is played.

The managers meeting Monday decided to permit each club to have 15 players, 10 to be used in a game; game time is 6:30 with seven innings being played; bunting is permitted; no scoring permitted on passed balls. Another ruling that is of much importance to the league is that, "If a team appears with only eight men present, those eight must play the game with no picking up from the sidelines permitted. If a team appears with less than eight players, the game is forfeited."

The league decided to seek the services of Dick Robinson as umpire-in-chief, Robinson to designate a base arbiter.

Since the league now includes seven teams, another is being sought to make the loop more complete. Any backer interested should appear at Friday evening's meeting.

TRY ONCE MORE

WHENEVER your partner bids a suit in response to your opening bid, it will pay you to make a general practice of bidding again. Try another suit if you can, or a rebid of your original suit, or possibly no trump. This holds true even if your partner has passed before you bid. Unless there was something sour about your own bid in the first place, it usually will pay to give your partner one more chance.

Different bidding resulted where the North players started with 1-Heart, South responding with 2-Diamonds, North 2-Spades and South 3-No Trumps.

Hearts having been bid, the no trump bidders received a club opening and as a result made five, with the loss of only two club tricks. Even with the heart lead 5-Diamonds can be made.

MANY PROGRAMS OF GRADUATIONS HOLD INTEREST

Interesting display of Circleville high school commencement programs, dating back to 1865, has been arranged in a case in the front hall of the public library.

The early commencements were held in Peck's hall, Court and Main streets. Librarians hope to complete a file of the programs. Circleville's first commencement was held in 1858.

Programs wanted by the library are 1882, 1885, 1901, 1905, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1914, 1916, 1918, 1920, 1924, 1927, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932 and 1935.

GEORGE RAMBO SENT TO JAIL FOLLOWING THEFT

Theft of two pairs of spectacles worth $2 from the G. C. Murphy Co. resulted in George Rambo, 52, of S. Scioto street, being sent to the county jail Monday evening to serve out a fine of $100 and costs.

Rambo pleaded guilty to a charge of petit larceny filed by H. G. Kingwell, store manager.

An Air Romance—at Full Speed!

SOME kind of a record for romances was set by John Guthridge of Wichita, Kas., and his bride, the petite Ruth A. Joseph of Dallas, Tex., chief hostess of Braniff Air Lines. They met by long distance telephone at 4 p. m., were introduced in person for the first time at 7:25 p. m. in Wichita and were married at midnight. They had seen each other previously at Wichita airport but had not exchanged words.

Jury of 12 Men to Hear Charge Against Carroll

NEW YORK, May 24.—(UP)—A jury of 12 men was ready today to try Donald Carroll, 16, who killed his 18-year-old sweetheart at her request because she was an expectant mother and they had neither the means to marry nor the courage to tell their parents.

Two alternate jurors were to be chosen before the first of the state's witnesses is called to begin the story of the bewildered high school boy and girl and their suicide agreement that was only half completed.

While 81 members of the panel were being questioned yesterday in the quest for the impartial 12, Donald sat with downcast eyes. Never once did he glance toward the first seat beyond the rail, where his and the girl's parents sat side by side staring at him compassionately.

To Relate Story

His lawyer, Sydney Rosenthal, had not decided whether he would let him testify, and jury candidates were questioned carefully as to whether that would influence them. In jail, where he was denied bond as a prisoner liable to a death sentence, he had said if he were called "I'll tell them what happened; that's all I can do."

He had told his story readily to police, and the evidence had confirmed it—that he and Charlotte Mathiesen had agreed to die together because they hadn't known what else to do. And that after watching her die he had not had the courage to kill himself.

It happened March 24 in his attic bedroom. They had been sweethearts two years before that. Their parents hadn't realized their affection was serious, and the lovers had not believed the parents would understand how serious their love was.

The sympathy that the boy's and girl's parents have expressed for each other and for the boy—Fred Mathiesen calls Donald "son"—and has made a radio speech pleading with all parents to take a lesson from the case and win their children's confidence—was demonstrated by members of the jury panel yesterday when 26 of them asked to be excused because they could not be impartial.

Women were excluded by the impaneling of a "blue ribbon" jury—persons who have had long experience in murder trials. Women have not served on juries here

Cedillo Men Dispersing; Revolt Reported Ended

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 24.—(UP)—Rebel followers of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo seemed to be dispersing today and government officials asserted that the ousted military commander's revolution had been broken.

The uprising apparently had degenerated into scattered guerrilla fighting on a minute scale. Bands of "Cedillistas" were operating in the mountains in northern San Luis Potosi state and in the Huasteca region, but government troops, aided by airplanes, were closing in on them.

Cedillo was reported to have established headquarters at Montebello, northwest of Ciudad Maiz, from where he broadcast propaganda over his private radio station. The government said that he had about 3 men with him.

Strength Debated

Reports that Cedillo's entire armed strength numbered 14,000 men were considered ridiculous. While no official estimate was available, army men asserted that if he were that strong he would not evade a real battle, nor would he divide his men into groups.

Private, reliable sources close to the government said that there were 20 army corporations, equivalent to 9,000 men, in San Luis Potosi state in addition to loyal armed Agrarians. It was recalled that last week Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, minister of national defense, asserted that "the government can have 500,000 men, including workers and Agrarians."

President Lazaro Cardenas was nearly in complete control of the last of the states which had been virtually autonomous at the time he became president on Nov. 30, 1934.

At that time Tabasco, Queretaro and San Luis Potosi virtually were divorced politically from the federal government. Garrido Canabal, who formerly ruled Tabasco state, now is living in exile at Costa Rica. Saturnino Osornio, former chief in Queretaro state, now lives in a small village in Puebla state. Up until his revolt, Cedillo ruled San Luis Potosi with an iron hand, naming zone commanders, governors, judges and mayors.

Canabal was the first to fall; when he resigned as secretary of agriculture on the occasion of the break between Cardenas and former President Plutarco Calles in July, 1935. At that time a "student expeditionary force" flew over Villa Hermosa and fought with the "Carridistas." Several were killed and the local government was ousted.

Joan Blondell is credited with coining two new pieces of motion picture slang.

She calls the last scene before lunch the "nosebag" shot and the last scene before quitting time the "cellophane" shot. The lat-when Osornio completed his term of office. The new governor, Col. Rodriguez, has collaborated with Cardenas.

Miss Blondell's new slang expressions rapidly became popular on the set of "The Perfect Specimen," in which she and Errol Flynn are co-starred. The picture is at the Grand theatre.

Governors Aid Cardenas

Today, reports from Mexico City revealed that all state governors in Mexico, with the exception of Mateo Hernandez Netro of San Luis Potosi state, were supporting Cardenas. Hernandez Netro abandoned his post, presumably to join the rebels.

An official statement said that the governors were identified with the institutional policy of the federal government, had affirmed national autonomy and branded Cedillo a "victim of machinations and interests inimical to our nationality."
